SAVING SCORE OF DRUNKS IN SHIPWRECK

One Passenger Was Knocked Senseless to Protect Others in Lifeboat, Steward Says

Charges that passengers, not the crew, of the wrecked liner Prince David were hilariously drunk during their rescue off Bermuda were made today with the arrival of 33 crew members in Boston.

One passenger, whose actions threatened to swamp a life boat laden with passengers, had to be knocked unconscious, according to Thomas Boyd, an assistant steward.

A Dorchester girl, Miss Alma Boudreau, 25, of Larchmont, was among those who returned here. Miss Boudreau was a stewardess on the wrecked liner and is already a "veteran" of three shipwrecks.

ONE PERILLED OTHERS. "Some of the crew took a few drinks after they reached the liner Lark, which was the rescue ship, but that was to warm them up after the chill they got in the pouring rain," Boyd said.

"But three or four passengers were shouting and carrying on during the rescue.

"One of them was jumping around in one of the lifeboats until we were afraid it would tip over. We had to be hauled out so the other passengers wouldn't be in danger."

Boyd said the other passengers acted calmly and some even danced with bottles on the pier while waiting for lifeboats to be lowered.

He praised Jack Webb, chief steward, and the crew of engineers for their coolness in peril.

CHARGE OF GEORGE H. P. TURNER, Ayer, publisher, that improper navigation was responsible for the wreck, were answered by other members of the crew as "red."

"There was a heavy mist and rain and poor visibility."

"They denied the ship was making 25 knots when she struck."

Miss Boudreau said she was on B deck when the ship struck, shortly before 1 p. m. last Sunday.

"I helped passengers on with life belts, and the orchestra struck up 'River, Stay Away from My Door,' she said.

"The passengers were very cool, but I was worried about one of my passengers, a woman from Chestnut Hill. She had been sick from the time we left Boston, and she was very pale when she found out the real facts."

IS HAPPY TO GET BACK, HE TELLS A AMERICAN

His Eminence, Looking Fit From His Sunshine Stay at Nassau, Praises Bermuda

In perfect health, Cardinal O'Connell, ranking American member of the hierarchy, returned to Boston today after a stay of several weeks in the West Indies.

The Cardinal was accompanied by the Rt. Rev. Mr. M. J. Spaine, D.D., permanent rector of St. Joseph's Church, Roxbury, and the Rev. Joseph F. Coppinger, permanent rector of St. Augustine's Church, South Boston. To a representative of the Boston Evening American he said:

"I am glad to be back again with my own flock."

The Cardinal described his trip home declaring that for a time the ship encountered mountainous seas. The Cardinal, however, is a good sailor and was not inconvenienced.

READY FOR DUTIES. "Most of my time was taken up by writing letters to the Holy See," continued the Cardinal.

"The weather was perfect most of the time and now that I am back I am ready to take up the work of the diocese. Of course, I have never been out of touch with the work going on here."

"We are back on the threshold of Holy Week, and I am ready for my duties."

Through the Boston Evening American he sent his loving regards to the people of his archdiocese.

The Cardinal and his party arrived at quarantine shortly after 1 a. m. and landed at Commonwealth Pier shortly after 8.

They were met at the pier by the Rt. Rev. Mr. Francis Burke, chancellor of the archdiocese, and the Rev. F. L. Phelan, assistant chancellor.

"Since I have been away," His Eminence said, "I stayed in one place. I stayed at Nassau and had nearly two whole months of sunshine."

The head of the Boston archdiocese gave great praise to the climate of the West Indies.

Nassau is a little island of 50 miles, said he. "Its climate is fine, and its temperature is quite even. I do not think it is known enough by Americans who like to go where noisy crowds."

"Three of us (Mr. Spaine, F. Coppinger and His Eminence) lived in a little old house which had formerly been the site of a fort. It is very old and more or less tumble-down. But it suited us perfectly. When I am away from there it is used by the Sisters of Charity as a school."

"The house serves the double purpose of a place of rest for us in the winter and as a school when I am away."

"The big function, in fact, the greatest function in many years, was the arrival of Mr. Bernard as prefect apostolic to the Bahamas. The islands were formerly under the jurisdiction of the New York archdiocese. As the population became greater, it needed a local ecclesiastical authority."

"When Fr. Bernard arrived and Cardinal Hayes visited the island to make the transfer, the latter was accompanied by Marquis de Macdonald. That was an extraordinary one in the little island of Nassau. All were authorities turned out with the local population for the event. It was a notable function.

"Gov. Clifford, in charge of the island, is a member of an old family whose I have known for a number of years. He is a cousin of Lord Bessborough."

"The governor and all the officials of the island did everything possible to make our stay comfortable and pleasant. The main thing was the perfect privacy which we had. We went for a complete rest and we were able to get it."

The Cardinal went directly from the pier to the archiepiscopal offices in Grand Cayman, and then to his residence in Brighton.

SPLIT, 2 TO 3, ON BANKHEAD

Washington, March 18 (AP)—The election of John H. Bankhead as Democratic senator from Alabama in 1920 was held today in a minority report in the Senate elections committee to have been a "fair and free expression" of the will of the voters.

The report, submitted by the subcommittee, which considered the contest against Bankhead's seat, sharply challenged the findings of the committee majority of three Republicans that Bankhead was not legally elected.

'GAMEST BOY,' 14, DIES IN TIN LUNG

Fights for Life for 174 Days With Smile on Face and Hope in Heart

Syracuse, N. Y., March 18 (AP)—Friends of Clarence Hastings: The lad who called "the gamest kid in America" is dead.

The 14-year-old boy, whose fight for life was known in all parts of the country, died in City Hospital this morning of infantile paralysis complicated by the shock of an operation on Sunday for an abdominal obstruction. He had spent 174 days in the respirator.

Alarmed in the city and finally faced Clarence smiled his intention to live, while nurses and doctors stood around the breathing apparatus, the mother and watched his life ebb away. He turned his head and said:

"Please shut off the machines. They're making too much noise."

Just after that a telegram came from Mrs. Arnold, translator, an actress, who had taken an interest in the case.

SACKS OF MAIL. "When you receive look me up at Riverside Flying Field and I'll take you for a good flight for swing on wheels."

It wasn't the first telegram sent to the boy in his long fight to conquer his illness. Scores of them, and thousands of letters poured in as a result of some kind words addressed to the boy a month or so ago by Kate Smith, radio singer. On one day he received two mail sacks full of correspondence more than any other individual in the city.

The mail also brought him many little gifts. A youngster in the Bronx sent him pet rabbit's foot. A minister from the Mid-West wrote he was praying. There were picture postcards, travel pictures, handkerchiefs. Little girls in New York City wrote valentines.

SNAGS HIT BILL TO AID BANKS

Washington, March 18 (AP)—Growing controversy over provisions in the new Glass banking reform act for cutting operations today threatened to delay passage of the measure providing Federal aid for depositors in closed banks.

The bill was introduced by Mr. Glass, a former secretary of the Treasury, after the Senate banking subcommittee had reached an agreement over the provisions designed to cut off credit.

The proposed investigation of the New York stock market apparently has been buried. Consideration of the Glass bill is expected to last two or three weeks.

Beauties of Gay 90's Invite Ely, But He Won't Sing

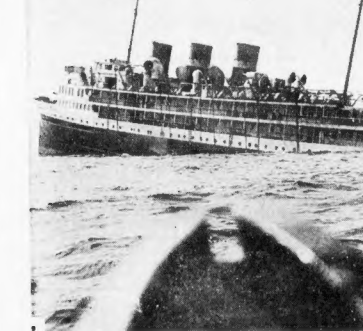

Attired in clothing of the "gay nineties," featuring such absolute articles as bustles, petticoats, pious points, bag-mutton sleeves, on-tick tippets, ruffles and what-have-you, five charming young women called upon Gov. Ely as each today to invite him to a dance at Hotel Statler tomorrow night.

The antiquated rig of the young women stopped traffic in Beacon st., in front of the State House and a large crowd of laughing spectators crowded into the Governor's outer office to see the damsels.

As His Excellency stood, facing the young women, having his picture taken, someone suggested that he sing "Tell Me, Pretty Maiden."

The Governor laughingly declined. The delegation included Mrs. Edward M. Duane, Brookline; Mrs. John W. Moore, Dorchester; Miss Helen Corkery, Roslindale; Mrs. J. A. Lynch, West Medford; Miss Gertrude Delaney, Medford; and Harold B. Lynch, Medford, coachman. Capt. Vincent Coyne of Jamaica Plain accompanied the party.

Gowns of the "gay nineties" will be worn at tomorrow night's dance in the Hotel Statler, which is under the auspices of the Democratic Women's Army, which is affiliated with the victory campaign of the Democratic party for 1932.

Two years later she was aboard the schooner H. A. MacLellan when it was hit 48 days on an ordinary four-day trip to New York from Nova Scotia.

"The statement that the crew got drunk is a lie," Miss Boudreau said. "When they got aboard the Lady Smelter they had a few drinks to get warm, that's all."

She told of "Vore," parrot mascot of the ship, who was rescued in a lifeboat, returned to the wrecked ship and afterwards was taken back to Macdonald. That was an extraordinary one in the little island of Nassau. All were authorities turned out with the

ROOSEVELT HAS 7 SURE IN N. D.

Cheyenne, Wyo., March 18 (AP)—Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York, who defeated Governor William Murray of Oklahoma, won seven, and possibly nine, pledged Democratic national convention delegates in Tuesday's primary election.

George Murray, brother of the Oklahoma Governor, was the only Murray delegate in the running, standing in seventh place.

Seven Roosevelt delegates in 1930 of the 228 precincts in the State polled vote, that assured them of election, while two others remained on the "border line," with only a few hundred votes separating them from those who ranked below the first 10. David Kelly, Grant, and others pledged to the New York Governor topped the state with 37,116 votes.

In the Republican primary, Roosevelt pledged to President Hoover and one uncommitted held the favor. 11 positions in returns from 1931 precincts. Hoover was not a candidate for the preference for whom former Senator, L. Francis Maynard and Gen. Jacob S. Coxey, Mayor of Massillon, O., contested.

France won, but neither Coxey nor Maynard had a pledged state on the ballot, and his victory was without any instructed delegates.

Guthrie Named to Fill Place on Curley Slate

By BERNARD J. DOHERTY

With 5 p. m. today the deadline, Smith and Roosevelt backers are concentrating on getting the requisite number of signatures on delegate nomination papers certified before election commissioners and registrars of voters.

All nomination papers must then be filed with Secretary of State Charles W. Cook next Tuesday.

GUTHRIE CHOSEN

To fill the vacancy caused by the withdrawal of J. C. Joseph, French and French consular agent in Boston, Col. Percy A. Guthrie, Boston attorney and well known Canadian killer commander in the World War, was chosen on the Roosevelt delegate-at-large slate by Mayor Curley.

At a big meeting of the Tammany Club Mayor Curley was introduced by Daniel J. Gillen, president of the organization, as "a man from the old ward (17), who is about to become an officer in the Cabinet of the President of the United States," amid deafening applause.

The stage was set for an announcement from the mayor on the gubernatorial situation. The program carried the mayor's picture and the caption "Our Next Governor."

TALKS FOR ROOSEVELT

The crowd was disappointed as it developed that the arrangements for the evening were without any instructed delegates.

CONFESSES TO LIVE LONGER

that he had no intention of making such an announcement "at this time."

In the course of his remarks to the gathered crowd, the mayor urged his friends to get behind the candidacy of Governor Roosevelt. He declared he was in the fight to a finish, that he did not fear the powerful aggression of Smith backers, and predicted a win for the New York chief executive.

Thomas L. Twomey of Malden, who deposited nomination papers at the State House as early as Feb. 23 as a delegate pledged to Smith, has formally withdrawn from the contest. Twomey was not named in the Walsh-Ely-Donaghy slate and therefore lacked authority to use the designation on the ballot.

BETTER FIGHT AHEAD

Some speculation exists in political circles as to the possibility of a last minute withdrawal of consent to the use of his name in the primary by Governor Roosevelt in the interest of party harmony. Rumor is possibly regarded as extremely remote by the Smith supporters.

The Smith wing is preparing for a better six weeks' campaign, in which no question will be asked or given. Establishment of a Smith headquarters will shortly be announced by Chairman, Frank J. Donaghy of the state committee, who is laying down the line of battle.

With the opening of a forum by the Roosevelt faction next Monday at 333 Washington st., and a headquarters for women at the Dutch room at the Hotel Touraine, the Curley machine will give it its stride.

Governor Ely has been invited by the mayor to appear at the Washington st. rallying point as the first speaker of the forum to explain his stand on wage cut for state employees.

GILLETT TESTS HIS LUCK AT THE WHEEL

Cosning, N. Y., March 18 (AP)—Peter Sardini, 28, bought two weeks of life and paid for it with "inside dope" on six murders.

As they were getting him ready to die in the electric chair for killing Frank Zeppo during a Brooklyn holdup, he said: "Get me a reprieve and I'll tell the district attorney plenty."

Three assistant district attorneys from New York talked with him, flashed the word to Albany, and back came Gov. Roosevelt's order for a 14-day reprieve.

Sardini, had given names of perpetrators of one playing in Brooklyn, three in Manhattan, one in the Bronx, and one in Highland Falls. Five were "ride" slayings, he said.

Tardieu Defeated on Pension Plan

ONIONS STRONG EGGS FALL OFF

Washington, March 18 (AP)—The Bureau of Labor Statistics today announced that retail food costs throughout the United States dropped about 3.3 per cent from January 15 to February 15.

Fresh eggs showed the greatest decline, dropping 19 per cent, with pork chops and butter next with 9 per cent. The only increases were onions, which went up 8 per cent; oranges 2 per cent; and cornflakes 1 per cent.

Jacksonville, Fla., led the 31 cities studied in lowering prices both for the month and the year. Costs for the month fell 7 per cent and for the year 23.

Other decreases for the month included: Boston and Providence, 4 per cent; Fall River and Portland, Me., 2 per cent.

U. S. NEWS GIVES SOVIET HOPE

Moscow, March 18 (AP)—All Moscow morning newspapers gave prominent place today to a dispatch to the Tass News Agency from London saying well-informed circles were following with interest a report that the United States might change its policy toward recognition of the Soviet Union in connection with events in the Far East.

The report said some quarters in Washington made no attempt to conceal a desire to improve American-Russian relations in order "to balance forces in the Far East," and that undoubtedly American public opinion in favor of the continuance of non-recognition was greatly weakened.

PAY CUT PLANS LAID TO LOBBY

Washington, March 8 (AP)—A change of sentiment in Congress for drastic salary cuts for government workers "all down the line" was attributed today by Representative Byrns (D., Tennessee), "lobbying activities of certain postal employees."

Byrns, chairman of the special House committee, said the change was due largely to the action of the postal employees who caused the defeat of a proposal to prevent automatic salary increases for Treasury and Postoffice Department workers.

The economy committee is preparing a bill to cut government employees' salaries. It is expected to save $20,000,000 to $30,000,000 annually. Whether it will apply to all employees or to those with substantial salaries has not been determined.

Byrns said "demands for wage cuts in the lower brackets have increased ten fold."

San Francisco, March 15 (US)—From the mother of Speaker John Nance Garner today came a message expressing her appreciation to Californians for their efforts to make her son the next President of the United States.

Mrs. Garner, who resides in Detroit, communicated with Willits in reply to a letter in which he informed her of the momentum which the Garner boom was gaining in the state.

"I was very glad to hear such nice remarks concerning my son," her letter said.

"I am sure that your friends, William Gibbs McAdoo, and others like you will be of greatest help should my son receive the Democratic nomination for President."

WOMEN FAINT AS MURDERESS GETS ANOTHER FACE

By DOROTHY KILGALLEN.

New York, March 18 (INS)—Before a tense, tight-lipped audience, where women fainted and dropped to the floor, a mysterious woman criminal—her eyes masked to hide her identity—submitted to a surgical operation designed to change her face so that she can re-enter society as a new and transformed woman.

It took two hours and seven minutes for this woman, doomed in the eyes of the public as a murderer, to destroy her features and become a new person.

White-masked and swathed to the neck in white cloth, she reclined in the operating chair beneath powerful, hot electric lamps while three physicians and a nurse hovered above her on the black-draped stage of the Hotel Pennsylvania ballroom.

Two hours and seven minutes... An orchestra played popular selections while the surgeon's scalpel slit the skin on her face from chin to temple, making incisions an inch wide.

It was "Goodnight, Sweetheart," while the glittering knife cut away flesh... Cut away 20 hardened years of prison life... Erasing lines of bitterness.

The violin wailed, "How long will it last?" as Dr. J. Howard Crum, noted Chicago plastic surgeon, went into the second long hour of the operation.

By this time four women in the audience of 500 had collapsed and were carried out of the crowded room.

The "mystery patient" reclined throughout the ordeal without uttering a cry, her small frame steeled to the test. Once only, when the second anesthetic was injected, did she wince, and her mouth quivered.

During the last 15 minutes of the operation she grew weak and had to be revived with aromatic spirits of ammonia, administered by one of the assisting doctors.

The audience burst into applause when the patient was swung around in the chair to face them, and handed a mirror so she could see the transformation she had undergone.

"I feel fine," she said. The last bandages had been swathed about her face where the stitches had been taken. The crowd was slow to fill out, and the strains of the orchestra had ceased.

The operation was the climax in the program of the twenty annual convention of the International Association of Beauty Shop Owners.

OLCOTT, FAMED SINGER, DIES IN EUROPE

Monte Carlo, Monaco, March 18 (INS)—Chauncey Olcott, famed American singer of Irish ballads and actor, died at his villa here today from an attack of pernicious anemia.

Olcott was taken ill in August and steadily grew worse. He was ordered to bed recently and yesterday his doctors gave up hope for his recovery. His wife and brother, John, were with him when he died.

He was 71. He was famous on the American stage as a leading actor in Irish musical dramas more than a generation ago, and appeared until comparatively recently on stages both in the United States and England.

Burial will be in his native New York state, preceded by services in St. Patrick's Cathedral, New York city. The body is to be sent to the United States on the Italian liner Biancamano, sailing from here on March 23.

PLAYED MANY ROLES

Olcott was born in Buffalo as Chancellor John Olcott in July 21, 1860. The late R. M. Hoodie introduced him as a singer at the academy of music there and New York heard him for the first time in the United Square Theatre in the spring of 1886.

That was but the beginning of a stage career that embraced two-score years and ended only when age stilled the voice that made "Mother Machree" and "My Wild Irish Rose" tunes to be hummed at every heartbreak in the land.

There is no completion of the part Olcott played, but there were 50 at least, not counting the apprenticeship he served with Hootie's Company for two years, his association with Haverly's Troupe, the Carvers' Minstrel and Duff's Opera Company.

He sang for two years in England, early in the 90's, in Gilbert and Sullivan and other comic operas and when he returned to the United States he was established definitely as a star.

MADE MOTHER MACHREE
Olcott collaborated with Ernest Ball in writing the music for "Mother Machree" and there was many a "test-tained eye" in the theatre when he sang:

"Shure I love the dear sister that shines in your hair,
And the knee that's all fermented,
And worked with care."

In Saratoga Springs he had a home that was noted by experts as one of the finest early American residences in the country. There he and his wife collected antiques and entertained with some of the first families numbered among their friends.

Olcott always spent the winter the Riviera because of his health.

Olcott Always One of Boston's Best Favorites

Chauncey Olcott was one of the best beloved of all stage folks in Boston. His Irish plays were always a sell-out here. Thirty-three years ago while at the old Boston Theatre, playing in "Sweet Home," he decided he had been a bachelor long enough and went to Belmont to take a colleen, Margaret O'Donovan, as his bride.

She had known him in San Francisco and New York. They spent their honeymoon here.

His last appearance on the Boston stage was in 1924 in "The Heart of Paddy Whack."

General Motors Has German Plant

New York, March 18 (INS)—Purchasing of the 20 per cent minority interest outstanding in Adam Opel, A. G., automobile manufacturer, Germany, gave the General Motors Corporation complete ownership of this property, the company's annual report issued today, said.

While the price was not disclosed, it was believed to have been approximately $5,700,000.

MRS. LAVERY'S OWN STORY OF BIG SMASH

prints a sermon of Fr. Coughlin's that we missed.

I think the American articles on Father Coughlin are fine, but they're no finer than the man they're written about.

Well, after we pay off our mortgage — and when I say mortgage, I mean a real mortgage — we'll make other plans.

One thing we do want to do, John and I, and that is attend the Eucharistic Congress in Ireland next June. I've always wanted to attend one of them, but you can't attend no widows and wants.

John's parents and my parents were born in Ireland. Mine were born in County Cork, but my husband isn't sure what county his were born in.

After that, well, we don't know what we're going to do with the money, but we do know what we're not going to do. We're not going to use it foolishly and we're not going to invest in any wildcat schemes. In case any wildcats happen to read this.

BUSINESS IS BAD

We don't know yet about John's business, whether to invest some money in it or give it to the family. My husband runs a storage garage and automobile repair shop in Orient Heights, East Boston, but it's been more of a hindrance than an asset.

For months he's been working 16 hours a day and profiting at the most about $8 or $9 a week. Most weeks he has lost money on it, but has been reluctant to give it up. The business has been so bad, in spite of his long hours, that he hasn't even been able to pay last year's taxes on the building.

John has told our four children that if it wasn't for them, he would have had to give up the garage long ago.

I think I'll be generous with John, now that we've got this windfall, and insist that he work only 15 hours a day (instead of 16).

Seriously, though, it's all John's fault that we've won this money. John has a yen for buying tickets when he has the money. He's bought them before and we never bill anything, and when he comes to this one home and presented it to me, I said:

"What are you wasting money on this for?"

(You know, the "tough" wife.)

He said:

"To win some money. I told you years ago that if you married me you'd have luck."

"You didn't say what kind of luck," I replied, but, of course, — were only kidding. When we start in on a real west John must stay in the house long.

Of course, it's interesting. He just walks out. Then, by the time he comes back, we're forgotten what it was all about.

OUR CHILDREN

Oh, we've had plenty of scraps in our time. John and I must have been working in a rubber factory in Cambridge. He rubbed at me and I rubbed at him.

Eight years later we were married. One of those whirlwind courtships, you might say. Now we've got four children. John is 27, who is married and lives upstairs in our house. Mary, who is 25 and works in the probation office in the court-house. Frank, who is 23 and is studying electricity, and Jim, who is 21, a jewelry salesman in Lynn.

I suppose John and Jim — they are both jewelry salesmen — will be on my neck now to sell me a diamond ring.

When I called Mary and told her our horse had won, she said she was knocking off work for the day and wanted to get home and see if I was still breathing.

"You needn't get fresh with your mother," I told her. "Your mother can always find the breath to say her piece when you're lost for words."

When Jim heard I was going to speak over the Boston American's radio this noon and he interviewed on my good luck, he said:

"You speak on the radio?"

"Yes."

I've got the laugh on him now, because they told me in the American's broadcasting room that I was the coolest amateur that ever faced the microphone. But you can believe me, that I was so excited in that room that when they told me to take my coat off and uncomfortable — I didn't even know I had a coat on.

I started to get dizzy shortly after 10 o'clock. I was alone in the house and John, instead of going right to work, had to attend a funeral in Waltham.

BET AGAINST IT

Yesterday John bet a man in East Boston 100 cigars that his horse, Forbra, wouldn't even start in the race, but of course my husband was hoping he would, naturally.

Today he was so concerned with the funeral that he wasn't even thinking of the race when he returned home to change his clothes and go to the garage.

I had turned on the radio, meanwhile, hoping to get some news of the race, but then I found, after a while that the wire which leads in through the window wasn't connected.

Just taking a chance, I picked

RESCUED BY FIREMEN

Mrs. Mina Keefe, 83, one of three women rescued by firemen as flames swept the duplex dwelling house at 12-14 Lyndhurst st., Dorchester. up the end of this wire and held it to the one leading from the radio and then to cry and I picked up a broom and dropped it again. I just didn't know what I was doing.

"Forbra . . . and that concludes this broadcast," and so forth.

Then the telephone rang, and it was the Boston American, and a man's voice said I held the winning ticket and that Forbra had won.

I don't know what I said to the gentleman, but I started to laugh and then to cry and I picked up a broom and dropped it again. I just didn't know what I was doing.

When John came home and I told him he thought I was kidding, but then the reporters began to arrive, and he believed me at last.

BLUEBEARD, AT GIBBET EDGE, DENIES GUILT

By LEO V. DOLAN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

Moundville, Va., March 15 (INS)—With the last vestige of hope swept away by the refusal of Gen. Clegg, in great confidence Harry F. Powers, "Quint Dell Bluebeard" today faced death on the gibbet. He was a clear conscience and the abiding knowledge that I am innocent.

Powers was interviewed in his death cell here by International News Service.

In a few short hours he is to be hanged to the gallows. He exhibited a remarkable, almost contemptuous composure as he faced back, square for execution.

"As long as there is life, there's hope," he said.

INNOCENT, HE INSISTS.

The questioning revealed in Quint Dell, where the bodies of Mrs. Dorothy Presler Lemke, Mrs. A. A. Fisher, and the latter's children were found in a shallow trench.

"Are you guilty of any complicity in the deaths of those people?"

"No," tersely.

"That is the reason I can face death calmly. No one wishes to die. To meet death knowing that justice has been done to me is a horrible thought. But I have a clear conscience. I am innocent."

MESSAGE TO ALL PARENTS

"Have you any message you would like to send to the public concerning 'Lone Star' Club, or 'Matrimonial Clubs'?"

"I hardly know what to say."

He pondered the question. "After all it is the duty of parents to warn, to guide and to advise their children—and when those children reach their maturity they should have intelligence enough to decide their own course."

Powers volunteered the information that far from being estranged from his wife as had been widely reported, she has written him a letter every week since he was placed in the death cell.

"Each letter brought words of cheer and hope," he added. "I write in return each week, commending her."

Victim's Sister Has No Interest in Powers, She Says

Norfolk, March 15 (INS)—"My interest in Harry F. Powers ceased when the jury returned a verdict of guilty of murder in the first degree," said Mrs. Charles L. Fleming from her sick bed today, denying reports that she planned to attend the execution of the "Bluebeard."

Mrs. Fleming is a sister of Mrs. Dorothy Presler Lemke, one of Powers' victims. Mrs. Lemke was last seen alive when she left her sister's home here "to be married" to Powers, a "mail order" man.

"Powers is sane. I never for one minute thought a stay of execution would be granted," Mrs. Fleming told International News Service.

Wed in Love Test

The former Margery Latimer, Columbia graduate and writer, has become the bride of Jean Toumer, Negro poet and psychologist. The romance began in a small colony of "intellectuals" in California.

INDIAN BRAVE'S LOVE DEATH STORY TOLD

(Globe. Ariz., March 15 (INS))

"The white girl flirted with me," I embraced her. She took a knife out of her purse. I knocked her down with a rock. Then I stabbed her in the neck."

Whether Gilesey Seymour, 21-year-old Apache brave, will repeat at statement on the witness stand today was clothed in secrecy as he tried for the murder of Henrietta Schaefer, 25-year-old Columbia University co-ed, near his camp.

The United States Government charged that Seymour made that statement in his confession a few days after Miss Schaefer's murder on July 14 while she and Seymour were en route to an Indian dance.

Defense attorneys objected to introduction of the confession on the ground that it was obtained through an Indian interpreter.

DURING LOVE QUARREL

The government closed its case after presenting evidence they declared showed conclusively that Seymour killed Miss Schaefer during a love quarrel.

Defense counsel contended that Miss Schaefer asked Seymour to take her to the dance and that when he arrived at her home that afternoon she invited him in the house "where they both drank whiskey until Seymour was feeling merry and generous."

Why Old Men Kill: This One, 70, Shot 3 Over Tomatoes

Shreveport, La., March 15 (AP)

"Life's little things seem important to old men waiting for death in a poorhouse."

That is why A. A. Erickson, 70, was in jail today accused of killing two other aged men and wounding a third.

Wickerson, who cooked at the poorhouse at Shreveport, told police that R. J. Foley, 80, snatched his tomato pie and planted a garden of his own there.

They contended the liquor caused Seymour to lose his emotional stability later as he and Miss Schaefer mounted a horse and started for the dance. Indian custom forbids an unmarried girl to ride on the same horse with a man.

En route to the dance, defense attorneys said, Miss Schaefer was playful and teased Seymour, and that they consumed more liquor which the girl brought along.

CONFESSED KILLING

In a jury room, Seymour said, they made love, according to counsel, after which Seymour said he craved because of his unfaithfulness to his wife. He then told Miss Schaefer he would not take her to the dance and then she drew a knife.

Seymour hit her with a rock and after stabbing her to death returned to the home of his brother-in-law, Robert Galloway, and waited blood from his hands.

Galloway testified that Seymour had told him "I killed a white woman."

RADIO PRIEST ENTERTAINS YOUNGSTERS

Happy and versatile, the Rev. Father Charles E. Coughlin holds the dirty faced lad, winner of a pie eating contest the "Shepherd of the Air" conducted at Royal Oak, Mich., last summer. His work among the boys of his parish and his activities in aiding unfortunates, bring him popularity, second only to that which he attained by his radio work.

Fr. Coughlin Benefactor of Thousands of Poor

By ALAN FRAZER

(The night, 1932, by the Boston Evening American)

"Blessed is he that considereth the poor, the Lord will deliver him in time of trouble!"

Thus David wrote.

And thus Fr. Coughlin:

"Find the needy!"

Without regard for creed, find the needy. Without regard for color. Without regard for race.

This is his own instruction to his flock. He is a man of action, and he is a man of prayer. He is a man of faith, and he is a man of hope. He is a man of love, and he is a man of mercy.

PARISH AIDS WORK

The parish of St. Ignace, under the leadership of Fr. Coughlin, has been successful in raising funds for the poor.

On the night of the 17th, the parish held a fund-raising dinner, which was a great success.

The dinner was held at the home of Fr. Coughlin, and it was a most enjoyable affair.

On himself alone he did not depend. He was a man of action, and he was a man of prayer.

He was a man of faith, and he was a man of hope. He was a man of love, and he was a man of mercy.

FUNDS FROM LISTENERS

At the time of the dinner, Fr. Coughlin received many contributions from his listeners.

Some of the contributions were in cash, and some were in kind.

As a result of the dinner, the parish has been able to raise a large sum of money.

PLEADS FOR POOR

"Tonight there are other Josephs wondering where their little families will be sheltered."

"Are you going to repeat the ancient heresy that there is no room for them in the inn?"

"Will you not seek out some family that is Christlike and share with them your meagre abode?"

"Whenever you do unto these the least of my little ones, ye do unto Me."

'THE CRIME THAT COULDN'T HAPPEN' » » The Lindbergh Mystery

BLAKELY COUGHLIN

THE KIDNAPING OF LITTLE EUGENE P. LINDBERGH, JR., ON JANUARY 31, 1932, WAS THE ONLY OTHER MAJOR CASE IN WHICH A CHILD WAS STOLEN FROM A SECOND-FLOOR NURSERY AND A LADDER USED BY THE ABDUCTOR. A. J. TOSCANI, THE COUSIN, INFORMED THE BABY HE WAS MAD AND POSSESSED. THE LADDER AND COUGHLIN'S NAME, AS APPROPRIATE, A STOLEN COAT, ACCIDENTLY SMOTHERING IT IN MAKING HIS ESCAPE. HE NATURALLY RECEIVED A SENTENCE OF LIFE IMPRISONMENT. HE COULD NOT BE CONVICTED OF MURDER, SINCE THE BODY OF THE BABY WAS NEVER FOUND.

The identification of his communications as being from the kidnaper was more positive than anything else and as the work of the kidnaper of the child, not of the police. There is a story that the Lindbergh kidnaping was the first of its kind in the history of the world. That is a phony thought in connection with the Lindberghs, but it is one officially recognized in view of the fact that the Lindberghs were the first to be kidnaped.

THE THREE-SECTION LADDER USED BY THE ABDUCTOR IN THE KIDNAPING OF BABY LINDBERGH FROM THE NURSERY ON THE SECOND FLOOR OF THE LINDBERGH HOME.

It was the work in the bottom section the work of a second person. That roughly-made bottom section was properly prepared to fit the well-constructed middle section. In order that the section did fit properly, it is likely that the section was finished before an other was begun. And why should a man of wood-working skill, having finished two well-made sections, call upon a less skilled accomplice to construct the "third"?

CLAUDE PERSOL

LOYD KEET

ANOTHER PARALLEL TO THE LINDBERGH CASE WAS THE ABDUCTION OF LOYD KEET OF SPRINGFIELD, MO., IN 1917. BUT THE KEET NURSERY WAS ON THE FIRST FLOOR AND NO LADDER WAS REQUIRED. THE BODY OF THE CHILD WAS FOUND IN AN ABANDONED WELL AFTER MORE THAN A WEEK'S SEARCH. CLAUDE PERSOL WAS SENTENCED TO 35 YEARS FOR PLOTTING THE KIDNAPING.

sections. It is reasonable to assume that the work in the bottom section was the work of a second person. That roughly-made bottom section was properly prepared to fit the well-constructed middle section. In order that the section did fit properly, it is likely that the section was finished before an other was begun. And why should a man of wood-working skill, having finished two well-made sections, call upon a less skilled accomplice to construct the "third"?

Little Tip for Congress

—By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER—

Take a look at the way Congress acts when it can do something for the good of the nation. It starts blocs, huddles, filibusters, deadlocks and walkouts. It certainly likes its daily cabal garnished with a little tasty clique.

No man will vote for a bill unless it advances him politically and socially. Down there they go to work armed with those long every Japanese back scratchers.

The trouble with our congressional man-power is that it is too childish.

They've got the patronage system worked up to a high gloss. Any time Mississippi gets food relief you can bet your run-down heels that Pennsylvania gets a new postoffice.

For the good a congressman does is inferred in cash, but the bad lives on in amendments.

SURPLUS WHEAT SALE PLANNED

Foodless for 20 Days, He Won't Eat Till He Regains Job

Washington, March 18 (AP)—Dr. Frederic P. Wolters, former employee of the Library of Congress, began the 20th day of his protest hunger strike today in a weakened condition.

Wolters is conducting his hunger strike in protest against general unemployment and his own case in particular.

Since 1928, when he resigned as a result from the library, Wolters has been unable to obtain employment. He resides at a Washington Hotel near the city.

The Washington Herald reports that Wolters is in a weakened condition and is unable to take food.

HITLERITES NOW BUTT OF JOKES

Berlin, March 18 (AP)—Police investigators were going over lists of documents seized yesterday in the nationalistic raids on National Socialist meeting places, and today's administration newspapers had a good time poking fun at Adolf Hitler's Nazis.

Most of them thought it a pretty good joke that the Nazis, as police charged, should have chosen the nationalistic German flag as a symbol of a general push to help the cause of government.

The Nazis, it is said, are now in a position to help the cause of government.

JONES' ECONOMIC THEORY WRONG WHEN IT COMES TO CUTS IN WAGES

By ROBERT E. ROGERS

MR. "DAVY JONES" writes me as follows:

"The degree of a nation's prosperity is proportional to public buying power."

"Public buying power is proportional to the public's wages."

"Savings bank prosperity is proportional to the amount deposited."

"The deposition is proportional to the wealth of the depositor."

"The wealth of the depositor is proportional to his wages."

"The substantiality of a structure is proportional to the solidity of its foundation."

"Prosperity, happiness, contentment are proportional to the foundation upon which they stand"—wages.

"Industrial prosperity is proportional to the price of its commodities."

"Commodity prices are proportional to the level of wages."

"Industry's intelligence is proportional to its knowledge of physical laws."

"Its success is proportional to its usage of them."

"All these are applicable in inverse ratio. Are they not in accord with the laws of physics, if not themselves indeed, physical laws? The so-called 'Captains of Industry' do not seem to think so. 'Cut wages to the bone and we will have prosperity,' is but another way of saying: 'Weaken the foundation and the structure will be more substantial!'"

"The 'Captain' of the industrial vessel misreads his compass, which is the above physical compilation. On a small body of water such as the little too by four Boston Common Frog Pond the misreading may not be inclined to damage the craft to any great extent, but out on the great industrial ocean where would this 'mariner' arrive? What rocks, reefs, shoals or shallows would he safely negotiate? In what Sargasso entanglement must he eventually founder?"

Ricardo Doctrine Wrong, Too

I am afraid that Mr. Jones is two or three years too late with his little sequence of dogmas. When "prosperity" was at its peak, this was the majority doctrine, better than orthodox, an inspired revelation. In the first year of the crash it was still accepted. Last spring it was still being fought for. Today, it is so dead that nobody—neither professor of economics nor union leader—does it more than lip service. It is dead, as dead as all beautiful theories are when massacred by a gang of brutal facts. (That last line is Herbert Spencer's, who had a habit of citing memorable lines, such as "the struggle for existence" and "the survival of the fittest.")

Theorists are always attempting to put over immutable laws. A hundred years ago it was Ricardo's iron law of wages, that dogma that wages are governed by the immutable laws of supply and demand and that any attempt to tamper with that law will result in collective bargaining has shown that Ricardo overestimated the importance of his idea.

This new idea, that wages must be sustained at top-notch inflation levels or hell will pop, was invented in the hey-day of "prosperity." It took like the whooping cough. Everybody welcomed it with joyous whoops. The last two years have shown that even if Ricardo's theory was false when regarded as a "law of nature," it came nearer to being a demonstrable proposition in terms of human experience than the new idea.

Times Were Abnormal Then

It is a lovely theory, but the idea that if everybody pays everybody else the highest wages everybody will be prosperous, reminds me of the old joke about the prosperous little island where they all made a living by taking in one another's washing. More seriously, Mr. Jones' letter implies that financial and economic conditions from 1925 to 1929 were normal and healthy conditions.

Today every serious observer recognizes that those conditions were conditions of mad irresponsible inflation, wages being as much beyond reason as everything else.

The true proposition is very simple. A business can keep going today only by selling cheap, since there is no money to buy. To say that if wages are kept up there will be money to buy is no answer, for there will be no wages! If the employer has to pay high wages without immediate prospect of selling his goods, he may as well go bankrupt at the beginning. If he can hire labor at lower wages he can price his goods low, with a chance of making sales; he will make a little money wherever he buys more materials and labor; and so inch by inch pull himself out of the slough he is in. In the long run he will be able to pay better wages.

On the other hand the labor argument, such as Mr. Jones offers, neglects entirely the value of "real wages." All commodity prices are slashed to the quick. Days of high wages were also days of exorbitant prices. These days of lowered wages are also days of cheap living. One might almost say that wages have really not gone down.

Where Wage Cuts Help

Anyway, it is certain that if Mr. Hoover's and labor's determination not to cut wages had persisted, this country would be a more desperate condition than it is today. Many an industry is going on a wage cut, when otherwise the entire force would be laid off.

High wage theory in times of depression is exactly like the old myth. The earth rests on an elephant and the elephant on a tortoise. But what does the tortoise rest on? Nobody knows. What does prosperity rest on? Nobody knows. The chances are that it rests on a fairly exact adjustment of wages to prices, and of production to consumption. Three years ago production far outran consumption. Today it is likely that wages are outrunning prices and costs are outrunning prices. The readjustment must be made, not on a theory but on facts as they are. That is the only way by which the long slow climb upward may begin. Mr. Jones still lives in a sweet dream of the vanished past. So do many others. We all need to face the music and the facts.

FRANK LAVERY
Here are the happiest mother and son in Greater Boston this gladsome sunny day. He is Frank Lavery and she is Mrs. Margaret T. Lavery of 979 Broadway, West Somerville, and they can't quite get over it. For today Mrs. Lavery knocked the Irish Hospital sweepstakes loose from $15,000. And that's a lot of money any time. She held her ticket on Forbra, a 30-to-1 shot, and Forbra sped across and dropped the windfall of riches in her lap. She was so happy she even put her hat on backwards. (Staff photo.)

BABY BORN IN AMBULANCE

The birth of her child in a police ambulance, while she was being rushed to the Forest Hills Hospital, was given by physicians as the reason why Mrs. Lavery, of 979 Broadway, West Somerville, who is now in the hospital, delivered the child in a police ambulance. The child was born at 2:30 p. m. and weighed 7 pounds 10 ounces. The mother is now recovering well.

WALL ST.

New York, March 18.—A stock market was lost today in weakness in the utilities, precipitated by a break in Electric Bond & Share on the curb.
Bond & Share sold last more than a point, breaking to a new low of 2 points. The new stock slumped more than 2 points. This brought heavy selling into the affiliated companies listed on the big board, and National Power, Lansing, through Power & Light American & Foreign Power and American Power & Light lost from fractions to 2 points. Foreign Power went to a new bear market.

WEAK IN SYMPATHY.

Other utility stocks were weak in sympathy. Consolidated Edison dropped 2 points and United Corp. nearly a point. American Telephone broke nearly a point. The rails were lower, following the market trend, while values were sizeable they held well above yesterday's low.
Curiosity of the Wall at commodity was aroused by the refusal of directors of the Railroad Credit Corp. to issue a statement after a meeting yesterday. Reports for the last few days have been that there would be some "big news" on the rails from Washington. Allied Chemical dropped about 3 points despite its earnings statement showing the 34th dividend earned with something to spare. Bond trading issues were down 2 points each. Automobile shares declined under pressure from General Motors equities to all-time low.

TELEPHONE IS SOFT.

American Telephone was particularly soft, selling off 1 point. American Tobacco's favorable earnings report failed to help. General Motors, which lost 2 points, was among the declines in U. S. Steel, American Can and Western Union.

Wall Street bears have been a bit more numerous today than yesterday. The bulk of the orders have been in the important banking institutions, it is said.

Revere Copper & Brass, Inc. reported a net loss of $25,511 for 1931, against net income of $701,103 in 1930.

Net profits of $846,287 for 1931 were reported today by the American Light & Traction Co. equivalent to $2.88 a share on the common stock, compared with $1.35-35¢ for 1930.

All Wrongly Bred Eugenists, Take Notice

BIG MASTIFF AND TINY SPANIEL

These pictures are published to remind our good friends the "eugenists," who sometimes are called "stirpiculturists," that it is often a good idea to let nature take her course.

The eugenists say "Let us select the very best men and the finest women. Let us have them marry each other and produce a better race of human beings. Let us do away with inferior types; forbid them to marry, or, with the aid of birth control, persuade them not to have children. Then we shall have a much finer human race."

The late Charles A. Dana, editor, creator and owner of the New York Sun when it was an important morning newspaper, used to tell of a highly intellectual man who married a most intelligent woman. Their determination was to produce children of real genius. They had no doubt that they would do so. They had only one child, and it turned out to be an idiot.

This, of course, does not mean that intelligent men and women do not have intelligent children as a rule. They do. But it DOES mean that in marriage the one thing important is AFFECTION in the woman and KINDNESS in the man.

Any eugenist plan to improve a species by picking out the husbands and wives and mating them for the betterment of the race would injure the race.

What intense heat is to steel production, sincere and deep affection is to the production of better human beings. You are interested, possibly shocked, as you go through history to see how many men of extraordinary ability were men whose mothers were not married to their fathers when they were born.

The explanation is that in such unfortunate cases usually there was no doubt as to the MOTHER'S AFFECTION for the father. The child benefits by that affection. For instance, William the Conqueror of England was a son of a simple tanner's daughter, whom his father, the Duke of Normandy, saw washing clothes in a brook as he rode by on horseback. He was not married to her when the baby, afterward to be William the Conqueror, was born. Her married her later.

Another so-called "illegitimate" was Leonardo da Vinci, who painted the famous Mona Lisa, was first to invent the flying machine, a man of great genius. His mother was a poor peasant woman who could not possibly expect at that time in history to marry his father, a man of high rank.

Later the father married some lady of his own rank, and Leonardo, the illegitimate child, had the pleasure of supporting his impeccable half brothers and sisters of "higher rank."

What has this to do with these pictures of dogs? It has a good deal to do with it.

These dogs are the result of the science of eugenics. Their fathers and mothers were picked out with great care. They are bred to produce a certain type. And they PRODUCE it. But look at it.

Every dog show is a warning against interfering with

A CANINE WHAT-IS-IT?

Divine wisdom which causes tall men to like little women, intelligent women to like silly men, fat people to like thin people, and so on, KEEPING THE AVERAGE OF THE RACE ABOUT EVEN.

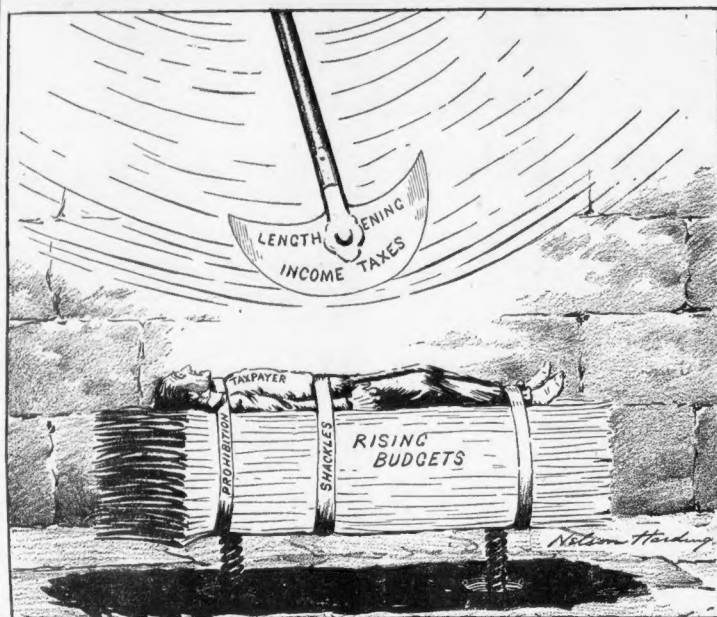

Look at the little dog, bred to know nothing in particular. Look at the big, heavy dog, bred so that his jaw is powerful, but his brains and anything else is taken out of him.

And, above all, look at picture No. 2, that queer "African" bound with a blanket on, looking like a cross between a chrysanthemum and a feather duster.

If these dogs had been allowed to select their mates in their own way and produce their puppies in their own way they would

Thoughts While Strolling

NEW YORK, March 18.—Thoughts while strolling: The last of the Gay 90 boulevardiers—Joe Rothchild. What's become of Glenn Hunter? Keri Lytle's ash-grey hair. If I could improve on the piano like Eddie Duchin, O. boy! Eva Le Gallienne suggests a pale fern among swaying ivy.

Never see icicles any more. Nor menthol inhalers. (I used to have a nickel-plated one for Sunday.) Philadelphia Jack O'Brien having an orange juice all alone—the solitary old drinker. Wish I could learn to let the butter answer the will. W. W. Hawking, a Louisville, Ky., boy, who made good in the city.

So they've made that gallant trouper, Wilton Lackaye, a life member of the Lamb. I always stop to watch one of those rising sidewalk palaces. A bonneted old lady lurching out of a "Non-Alcoholic Wine Shop." Alfred Freuhl, who draws those foreign liquor caricatures, is a Lima, O. boy. The arrival of a bunch of bananas was a big event in a small town. Messmore Kendall has done away with his mustache. Somewhere I lose my appetite in a cafe decorated in Egyptian or Moorish style. "Lily" name makes me think of a lake location. Joseph Tucker all in brown.

The glove grey texture of the old ivory spire. Moss Hart is the Radio's newest white-haired liberalist. Rebe Daniels doesn't look a day older. But she's a red—end now. How many remember Yacatan gum in long, round, white sticks and wrapped in fringed paper?

No public official profits so much by sheer wit as Mayor Walker. When he irritates you most, he wisecracks out of it. The stately, white-haired Mrs. Montague Glass. Dusk and a clear sky powdered with stars. A man carrying a human skeleton into a taxi. Oogie-boogie!

They were discussing skillet cuisine as performed by a sweating dancer. Irvie Cobb, the patriarch with the panache: with "There's nothing like an open-pore Negro over a hot stove to give cooking a rich, nutty flavor."

Syndicated trivialities often revive forgotten contacts. Bruce Reynolds, now happily married, participated in a midnight elopement in his callow youth. Next day the marriage was annulled and boy and girl went back to school. Recently Bruce's name appeared here. A letter came to be forwarded to him. It was from the midnight bride. He had not heard of her in 31 years. Neither knew the other was alive.

My favorite headline studied Page 1 of the Morning Telegraph years ago. The slogan of a restaurant on Broadway is "Janssen Wants to See You!" A cashier skipped with the dog's receipts. The Telegraph told the story and headlined it: "Janssen Wants to See You!" Dan's Sun, during the Boss Clark regime, often conveyed the town with quietly misanthropic little captions. Alfred Austin, then England's most laureate, arrived America and refused to talk. The headline ran: "King's Canary Refuses to Chirp." Then that masterpiece by Boss Clark himself during the swag of that time book called "The Simple Life." A newsboy paroled a couple from a sidewalk book store counter and was jailed. Boss Clark's headline read: "Tempted Beyond His Strength."

A gangster, who has "seen the light," tells me of this experience. He was in a speakeasy one midnight. A rival, and plenty tough, sauntered up and in a flash pressed a blue steel gat to his stomach. The trigger clicked but nothing happened. The aggressor was roused out. It was all so quick the victim had no time for fright. He finished his meal and a half hour later rose to go. His legs refused to work and he crumpled in a heap. Nor could he walk for ten days.

At an Algonquin table the other luncher sat Harry Burton, Burton Rascoe and Roscoe Peacock, and pronouncing them in rotation produces what might be called a swell concatenation of sound.

The hilarious Mary Boland observes: "One more theatrical novel like this and we are right back to magic lanterns."

Sunday Task

There are various tasks which a man must do

Besides earning his weekly pay.

He's a poor old stick if when that is through

He thinks he has closed his day.

For a father must whistle and sing and run,

Must whistle and carve and mend

And wear out himself in the name of fun

To the long day's uttermost end.

And one of the jobs which all dads must do

Is to read all the funny papers through.

Is the Sabbath a definite day of rest?

Well, not for a doting dad,

For he must do what his babes like best

If their children shall be glad.

And it's ten to one that his brood will creep

To his bed at break of day

And startle him out of his slumbers deep

With their glad commands to play.

Then the first gay sight that his vision meets

Is the sunrise pink of the funny sheets.

I read them first while I'm still in bed

And next when my breakfast's read

Again they'll order those "funnies" read

In the light of the noon-day sun.

I read them aloud till I'm faint and weak

And I read till my eyes grow blurred

I read till I scarcely have voice to speak

To the uttermost, final word.

I read till my temples and pulses throb

For those "funnies" are part of my Sunday job.

Listen, World! By Elsie Robinson

Don't Be Mad!

HOW DO ladies get that way?

Dr. Olga Knopf will tell you.

If you're a lady, yourself, you may be surprised. Probably mad

That that won't bother Dr. Olga

Knopf, who is a famous Viennese psychologist and quite immune to the tantrums of mad women.

Mama! mad or otherwise, are Dr.

Knopf's specialty. She knows all the tricks. She knows what they used to be in those first, simple days when sex didn't count—when a woman was just another human being and not a "weak" or "strong" or

"one no one put on a pedestal. Why should they?

A woman was no better than a man. She had the same appetites and desires. She thought and felt and did what a man did. A buck and a squaw were physiologically and psychologically as equal as a male and female wolf.

AND, AS A MATTER OF

FUNDAMENTAL FACT, THEY STILL ARE!

But times have changed. Life has become more complicated. The sex has become conscious of themselves, and up to tricks.

FEMININITY HAS BECOME A RACKET.

So comes Dr. Olga Knopf telling how, when and why in her book, "THE ART OF BEING A WOMAN."

No, it isn't another lamentation over how men have wronged women. There's been dirty work done at the cross-roads, but Dr. Knopf doesn't think that men have wronged women any more than women have wronged themselves.

Femininity, as a racket, is a miserable business. The ladies were keen for it as the men, and profited

as much by it.

What if they start it for, anyway? They started it because they wanted to GAIN IN ADVANT-

AGE OVER MEN.

Men, by their relatively freer life, stronger economic position and clear organization, had begun to gain an advantage over women. But women had a trick up her sleeve. If she couldn't get her way by being stronger, she could by BEING WEAKER.

You can get quite as much out of life—and men—by being DE-

PENDENT as by being INDE-PENDENT; perhaps more, says

Dr. Knopf.

"Submissiveness and passivity serve the same purpose as, as aggressiveness. . . . Children find very early in life that they can get their own way by stressing their weakness and helplessness. We might say, in fact, that the strong est being in the world is the baby.

He can do nothing for himself; and everything he needs is done for him.

No one expects him to do anything in return."

"IN THIS RESPECT MANY

PEOPLE REMAIN BABIES

ALL THROUGH THEIR LIVES.

AND THEY FIND THEIR

PLEASURE IN AN EXTRA-

ORDINARILY EFFICIENT

SERVICE FROM OTHER PEOP-

LE. MOREOVER, IF AN IN-DIVIDUAL ALWAYS GIVES

IN, ALWAYS TAKES HIS

ORDERS FROM SOMEONE

ELSE, HE AVOIDS RESPONS-

SIBILITY FOR ANY FAILURE

HE MIGHT MAKE."

Astute little technique! And still going along as strong in 1932 as it was in 1902. Why do Great big grown-up girls—'n' votes and jobs still make baby fuss? And why great big grown-up boys who should be dry behind the ears fat? For their part? That's why. Beauty parties to the contract get a big kick out of it.

"Neither men nor women take their legal equality very seriously," says Dr. Knopf. "If a woman has an advantage for men to pretend to be a little helpless. It is still an advantage for men to give women with a generous smile. They allow their liberties to women. They let do what they like—because they are sure it cannot come to much."

And the price? A lady's shameful price, which the whole human race grows weary of paying.

It's time that women know what it means to be a woman—learned the art of being "strong" instead of a schemer and schemed-against female. Get that book, lady. Read it. It will be good for what ails both you and your husband.

MONEY, IDEALS

By Claude G. Bowers

Author of "The Struggle for Democracy in America," "Founders of the Republic," "Jefferson and Democracy," "The Tragic Era" and other important works, now writes for the Boston Evening American.

JUST NOW the American people are interested primarily, if not solely, in ways and means to decrease the cost of government and to increase the revenue without imposing unusual burdens on the people. That had as much to do with the remarkable vote polled by the foes of the 18th Amendment in the House as anything else. Only three or four years ago the wets could not have polled a majority in the House on a similar proposition. This week they polled 187 votes, which came within forty votes of the number the supporters of the present prohibition law could assemble. This means that a change of twenty-one votes would give the repealers a majority.

There could be no greater fallacy than that of some of the liberals in the press and on the platform who cherish the silly notion that the men who are in Congress are a lot of devotees standing stubbornly against tax-payer sentiment. There is no reason to think that men have wronged women any more than women have wronged themselves.

Femininity, as a racket, is a miserable business. The ladies were keen for it as the men, and profited as much by it. What if they start it for, anyway? They started it because they wanted to GAIN IN ADVANTAGE OVER MEN. Men, by their relatively freer life, stronger economic position and clear organization, had begun to gain an advantage over women. If the 18th Amendment Is Modified

Some would ascribe this change to the conviction that prohibition as it stands cannot be enforced, and that the Hoover Administration is not trying to enforce it; some will find the reason in the development of liquor racketeering into one of the four or five most lucrative businesses in the land; some will explain that the effect on the young has been bad and that parents are worried. All of these explanations may have had effect.

But we have reached the conclusion, which is concededly cynical, that we Americans are afraid primarily by money. There are idealists among us who would go to the stake or the poor farm for an ideal, but these are few and far between. With the average man whenever a theory or ideal runs counter to his pecuniary interest he concentrates on the latter.

If the 18th Amendment ultimately is modified or repealed it will not be because of constitutional arguments, or social arguments, but because the majority of the people are impressed with the financial advantage of the present system.

IN THIS RESPECT MANY PEOPLE REMAIN BABIES ALL THROUGH THEIR LIVES. AND THEY FIND THEIR PLEASURE IN AN EXTRA-ORDINARILY EFFICIENT SERVICE FROM OTHER PEOPLE. MOREOVER, IF AN INDIVIDUAL ALWAYS GIVES IN, ALWAYS TAKES HIS ORDERS FROM SOMEONE ELSE, HE AVOIDS RESPONSIBILITY FOR ANY FAILURE HE MIGHT MAKE."
